Fairmount Center for the Arts Announces Speaker Series, “Bill Rudman of the Musical Theater Project”

Novelty, Ohio – March 12, 2019 -- Fairmount Center for the Arts announces the third program in its speaker series program. On Sunday, March 24, Fairmount will welcome The Musical Theatre Project featuring Bill Rudman and his program “All I Ever Needed to Know I learned from Musical Theatre.” This free, community at 3pm and is free and open to the public.

Bill Rudman is an educator, broadcaster, producer and founder of The Musical Theater Project (TMTP). As TMTP’s Artistic Director, he has created more than 100 concerts and cabarets that celebrate and share musical theater as a uniquely American art form. His radio programs, “Footlight Parade” and “On the Aisle,” are heard across the country on public radio stations, Public Radio Exchange (prx.org) and Sirius XM Satellite Radio. In 2000, he became the first recipient of the Robert Bergman Award for his work in arts education and community outreach. Laugh and learn with Bill Rudman from the Musical Theatre Project as he shares some of the lessons that we all should learn from some of musical theatre’s favorites.

This program will take place at Fairmount Center for the Arts, which is located at 8400 Fairmount Road, Novelty, OH 44072. This series is designed for adults but is family-friendly, refreshments provided. Free and open to the community, but due to space restrictions, an RSVP is requested. RSVP may be made to 440-338-3171 or via email at info@fairmountcenter.org.

This program is made possible due to the generous support of Toby and Melanie Maloney.
